

2019 年英语专业模拟冲刺卷(二十三)参考答案:

Part I Listening ComprehensionSection A

Short Conversation

1-8 BACDBADB

Long Conversation One

9-11 CDA

Long Conversation Two

12-15 DACB

Section B

Passage One

16-18 BAC

Passage Two

19-21 DCB

Passage Three

22-25 CABD

Part II Grammar & Vocabulary

26-30 BBDCB

31-35 CDABC

36-40 CABAB

41-45 BACAD

46-50 AADCD

Part III Cloze

51-55 ACABD

56-60 CBACD

61-65 CADDD

66-70 DBDCB

Part IV Reading Comprehension

71-75 CDCAD

76-80 CBDCA

81-85 DACDB

86-90 ABBCC

更多接本资讯请关注“河北精通专接本”微信公众号

Part V WritingCertificate Craze on Campus

Preparing for all sorts of exams to get as many certificates as possible seems to occupy a great number of college students in China, because people are always likely to believe that certificates prove one's ability in the most direct way.

But it is often the case that the desire for every certificate that he may ever know will never be achieved due to the lack of specific goal and career planning. The fact is that the students spend much time for kinds of certificates regardless of whether they will make use of them. Besides, there are so many certificates that one can't work on them at the same time. As a result, they will probably fail in the end.

Now that it is doubtlessly unwise to get into certificate craze. College students are expected to set specific goal and fight for it specifically, instead of wasting time on something that will never help. College is a place where professional talents are made, nevertheless, being professional requires being concentrated. Making clear what you really like to do and what you really want is the first step to success.

听力原文Part I Listening Comprehension*Section A

Directions: In this section, you will hear 8 short conversations and 2 long conversations. At the end of each conversation, one or more questions will be asked about what was said. Both the conversation and the questions will be spoken ONLY ONCE. After each question there will be a pause. During the pause, you must read the four choices marked A, B, C and D and decide which is the best answer. Then mark the correct responding letter on Answer Sheet with a single line through the centre.

Short Conversation

1. M: Did you buy any of the sweaters that were on sale?

W: Buy any? I got five of them! They were such a good bargain.

Q: What does the woman say about the sweaters?

2. W: I have trouble concentrating when my roommate talks so loud on her mobile phone.

M: Why don't you just ask her to lower her voice?

Q: What does the man suggest the woman do?

3. W: Wendy is in the basement, trying to fix the washing machine.

M: Shouldn't she be working on her annual report?

Q: What does the man mean?

4. W: What happened to the painting that used to be on the wall?

M: It fell down and the glass broke. I'm having it reframed.

Q: What do we learn from the conversation?

5. M: You must have left the camera in the market. It's a very expensive camera, you know.

W: But I tell you that I didn't take it. I remember clearly that you put it on the dressing table.

Q: What does the woman say about the camera?

6. W: There's a good comedy on at the Theatre Royal next Saturday. If you like, I can book four seats for us.

M: All right. I'll ask Janet if she is free then. I'll let you know tomorrow.

Q: What does the woman suggest they do next Saturday?

7. W: We've opened the first box. Look! Some of these books are soaked.

M: They should have used waterproof wrappings. What are we going to do about it? It's too late to order replacements.

Q: What do we learn from the conversation?

8. W: Professor Johnson said you can pick up your term paper at her office.

M: So she has graded it?

Q: What can we infer from the conversation?

Long Conversation One

W: Can I help you?

M: Well. I'm not sure. I hope so. You see, actually, I'm getting married soon. And my friends want to buy me presents and things.

W: And you would like some things for the kitchen?

M: Yes, that's right. I thought if I could find out about kitchen things, they would be the best sort of presents.

W: Well. I suppose the first thing you need is a cooker. Do you want an electric one or a gas one?

M: Em. I think I'd probably prefer a gas one. But cookers are very expensive. aren't they?

How much is this one?

W: It's one hundred and seventy-five pounds, including tax and delivery. It's a very good one though.

M: But it's a lot of money, isn't it? What sorts of things could I ask people to buy? You know, cheaper.

W: Well. You'll need some pans, won't you? A set of saucepans, I suppose, and frying pans. Do you like cooking?

M: Yes. I suppose so.

W: Well. In that case, you might like a mixer. If you make cakes and things like that, it'll save you a lot of time. And a blender too. That's good if you make soups and things.

M: Em. That's a thought.

W: Something else you might use is a set of these knives. you know, carving knives, bread knives, steak knives. fruit knives, potato peeling knives_

M: Heavens! I never knew there were so many sorts.

W: Oh, yes. Come over here and I'll show you some more.

Questions 9 to 11 are based on the conversation you have just heard.

9. Why is the man in the kitchenware shop?

10. Why does the woman want to know whether the man likes cooking?

11. What does the man say he has never realized?

Long Conversation Two

M: Good morning, Mrs. Thomson.

W: Oh. Mr. Minisuker. Please come in, and sit down. I want to talk to you about something that's come up.

M: What's up? Anyway, I'll be glad to help you with anything I can.

W: Some advice. Mr. Minisuker. I've been offered a new job.

M: A new job?

W: As a matter of fact. it isn't the bank in New York.

M: Is the offer from another bank?

W: It's from the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development in Washington.

M: You mean the World Bank?

W: That's right. And it's really very unexpected, I must say.

M: You've established a reputation in international banking circles. May I ask what kind of position they've offered you?

W: A rather important one. as a matter of fact. deputy director of the International Finance Corporation.

M: Isn't that the part of the bank that makes loans to private companies in the developing countries?

W: Yes, it is. It's a job that certainly offers a chance for public service.

M: It seems to me that it's a real honor for you.

W: Yes. it is. But I've been with this bank for so many years. Ever since I graduated from college in fact.

M: But it's an honor for the bank too, for the training and experience it's given you.

W: Yes, I suppose I could think of it that way.

M: Then you've decided to accept the offer?

W: Probably, yes. Almost certainly. I'd like to think I can do some work that will contribute to international cooperation and understanding.

Questions 12 to 15 are based on the conversation you have just heard.

12. What does the woman want to discuss with the man?

13. Who offered the woman the new job?

14. What will be the woman's main responsibility as a deputy director?

15. What does the man think of the job offer?

Section B

Directions: In this section, you will hear 3 short passages. At the end of each passage, you will hear some questions. Both the passage and the questions will be spoken TWICE. After you hear a question, you must choose the best answer from the four choices marked A., B, C. and D. Then mark the corresponding letter on Answer Sheet with a single line through the centre.

Passage one

Good transportation is very important in winter. If you have a car, make sure it is ready for the cold weather. Keep the gas tank as nearly full as you can. This will keep water out of the tank and will be a reserve in case you get into trouble. If a storm traps you in your car, there are some steps you should take for your own safety. Do not attempt to walk to find help. You may quickly lose your way in blowing and drifting snow. Your chances of being found are better if you stay in your car. Keep a downwind window open slightly for fresh air.

更多接本资讯请关注“河北精通专接本”微信公众号

Freezing rain can seal off your car and lock you inside. Run the engine and heater once in a while. Keep the same downwind window open while the engine is running. Make sure that snow has not blocked the exhaust pipe. Clap your hands and move your arms and legs from time to time. Do not stay in one position too long. But. do not move too much. Exercise warms you up, but it also causes you to lose body heat. If more than one person is in the car. do not sleep at the same time. One person should always be awake. If you are alone, stay awake as long as you can. Turn on the inside light at night. This will make your car more visible to rescue crews. Don't panic. Stay with your car.

Questions 16 to 18 are based on the passage you have just heard.

16. What does the speaker say you should do in winter with your car?

17. What should you avoid doing if a storm traps you in a car?

18. Why is too much exercise undesirable when you are trapped in a car by a winter storm?

Passage Two

The topic of my talk today is gift-giving. Everybody likes to receive gifts, right? So you may think that gift-giving is a universal custom. But actually the rules of gift-giving vary quite a lot. And not knowing them can result in great embarrassment. In North America. the rules are simple. If you are invited to someone's home for dinner, bring wine or flowers or a small item from your country. Among friends, family and business associates, we generally don't give gifts on other occasions except on someone's birthday and Christmas. The Japanese, on the other hand, give gifts quite frequently, often to thank someone for their kindness. The tradition of gift-giving in Japan is very ancient. There are many detailed rules for everything, from the color of the wrapping paper to the time of the gift presentation. And while Europeans don't generally exchange business gifts, they do follow some formal customs when visiting homes, such as bringing flowers. The type and color of flowers. however. can carry special meaning. Today we have seen some broad differences in gift-giving. I could go on with additional examples, but let's not miss the main point here. If we are not aware of and sensitive to cultural differences, the possibilities for miscommunication and conflict are enormous. Whether we learned about these differences by reading a book or by living abroad, our goal must be to respect differences among people, in order to get along successfully with our global neighbors.

Questions 19 to 21 are based on the passage you have just heard.

19. What does the speaker say about gift-giving of North Americans?

20. What do we learn about the Japanese concerning gift-giving?

21. What point does the speaker make at the end of the talk?

Passage Three

Claudette Rigo is a reporter for a French newspaper. Her assignment for the last five years has been Washington and American politics. She reports the current political news for her paper. In addition, she writes a column that is published every week. The column explains American politics to her readers in France. They often find it very difficult to understand the United States of Americans. Claudette lives in a small house in a fashionable section of Washington. She entertains a great deal. Her guests are usually government officials, diplomats, lawyers and other newspaper people. When she isn't entertaining, she goes out to dinners and parties. In spite of her busy social life, Claudette works very hard. The parties are really work for her, because reporters frequently get news stories just by talking and listening to people. Claudette also has a small office in a building downtown. She goes there every morning to write up her stories and send them to Paris. Her column is published every Monday, so she usually spends a large part of the weekend working on it at home. Claudette spends a month in France every year, so that she won't forget how to speak French. In spite of all her experience in Washington, Claudette may be transferred. This is an election year in the United States when the people elect a new president. When the election is over, Claudette thinks that her newspaper in Paris may change her assignment.

Questions 22 to 25 are based on the passage you have just heard.

22. What do we learn about the column Claudette writes?

23. What does Claudette usually do on weekends?

24. Why does Claudette spend a month in France every year?

25. What might happen to Claudette after this year's American presidential election?

