Section B

Group One

1. It is wrong to raise our children the way we grow flowers in the greenhouse. We must expose them to all social problems because very soon they will be dealing with them as responsible citizens.
2. As time goes on we are inevitably going to get more involved in international affairs. And conflicts are sure to occur because there always exist different views and interests among nations.
3. We are proud of our accomplishments, and we have reason to be. But we must never become arrogant. Otherwise we will lose our friends.
4. Information is now easily available. An average computer can store the information of a small library.
5. That construction company is not qualified to handle the project. They do not have any legal documents to certify that they have the necessary expertise. We must find a company that specializes in building theatres.
6. This thinking tank doesn't make decisions, they are out to generate new ideas and penetrating analyses that will be extremely useful for decision makers.
7. The growth of GDP is not everything. Our country cannot be said to have been modernized unless the quality of our people's lives is really improved.
8. Although we were poor in many ways at that time, we were still quite happy as children because there was clean air, clean water, a lot of fish, crabs and shrimps in the rivers and lakes; and a lot of flowers, trees and birds in the fields.
9. Traditionally in our country, school education was always said to be more important and useful compared with all other pursuits.

Group Two

1. You know what? All things considered, it's not a bad idea to be a teacher. As a matter of fact, I think it is an excellent idea.
2. I don't like it when you take a sarcastic tone the way you just did. You seem to be implying all the time that I am a good-for-nothing.
3. It is really considerate of my father to leave the final decision to me. I must say I am very lucky. Not many people have such a terrific father.
4. You said you did not want any money. You may not want money, but you do need money. I don't see what's wrong with students earning some money during their spare time.
5. Somehow this tune sounds very familiar, but I can't recall what it is. In any case, it is a Russian folk song.
6. Besides the usual weekend housework, I also have a whole pile of homework to do tomorrow. It's really terrible.
7. To demonstrate our unhappiness over the recent dispute, we put off our Foreign Minister's visit indefinitely.
8. It's getting dark. The next town is still two hours' drive away. We might as well camp in the forest, pitch a tent, build a fire, and have a good sleep before we continue our journey tomorrow.
9. I am really shocked to hear people say they do not consider cheating at exams shameful. Isn't that the most shameful thing that we have been incapable of feeling ashamed?

Which is more important, innate talent or acquired effort?

Effort is more important, if you have not acquired the hard work, your talent will not get raise, but will be devoid of silence. Edison said, "Success is 1% inspiration and 99% perspiration", which shows the importance of the day after tomorrow. Also be said that God rewards the diligent. Without a doubt, hard work is a much better predictor of success than natural ability.

Many athletes have a natural ability to run the fastest mile or kick the ball the most accurately. Unless they work hard though, they will not be stars. They need to train daily, eat properly, live correctly. It takes hard work to be the Number One.

At school, I have seen many bright students doing poorly in exams. They count on their intelligence to get them through. However, unless they do their homework every day, participate in class discussions, and study for exams, they will be the bottoms of the class. Many salespeople can talk with anyone and convince him or her to buy something. They have a natural ability to sell. They must, however, apply some hard work to this skill. They must learn a lot about their customers, about the product they are selling, and about the market, and they must put some effort into the paper work that goes along with the sale. If they don't follow through, the sale will not be made.

Whatever the area is, whether on the playing field, at school, or on the sales floor, a person must not rely on his natural ability alone if he or she wants to succeed. They must work hard to be a winner.

On Waste Sorting

People produce waste everyday at anytime and anywhere. But most people in China haven't formed the habit to waste sorting now. Most of us would throw, for example, plastics, papers, glass all into the same public containers, without thinking whether they are recyclable or not. I think we citizens should have the consciousness of waste sorting. It is high time for us to classify the garbage.

But waste sorting is very important. On one hand, without sorting, some waste, such as glass, hair, batteries will remaining at the place where they were placed for a long time, as a result it will pollute the earth. So garbage classification is meaningful to all of us who live in the earth. On the other hand, "waste is just the misplaced resources". We can recycle waste by sorting waste and making full use of some leftovers. In some degree, we are saving resources. If we do not sorting it, we are wasting resources.

In conclusion, there is no doubt that we must do waste sorting immediately. We can create a conservation-oriented and environmentally friendly world, which benefits to us. We must do it just Now! For example, we can collect the plastic bottle and sell it to junkies and throw the used batteries into the correct dustbin. We should always put the thought of waste sorting into our mind.
